

Latest news on CRRC s energy storage project in Ottawa

Gatineau-based energy company Evolgen is looking to build a battery energy storage system (BESS) in the community of South March in a project the company says will help address a ...

Members of the city's agriculture and rural affairs committee voted unanimously to deny the company official backing for the project, though city council will have the final say next week.

Geoff Wright, the company's head of development, told CBC News that he disagreed the new rules signal the city is not open for business. He also said he appreciated the concerns shared by...

The City of Ottawa's Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee approved the changes for Battery Energy Storage Systems (BESS), set to guide the land use policy direction for building battery...

A proposed 250-megawatt battery storage installation in Ottawa's rural west won a resounding vote of confidence Wednesday as Ottawa City Council approved a municipal support ...

Geoff Wright, the company's head of development, told CBC News that he ...

Residents in the Dunrobin area are not happy after Ottawa city council confirmed it support for a battery energy storage system (BESS) in the community.

A city committee passed new regulations Thursday that lay out the ground rules for companies looking to build battery energy storage facilities in Ottawa, but residents are split on ...

Three of the five rural councillors on the committee voted against rezoning land on Marchurst Road from rural countryside to rural general industrial to allow for construction of the ...

The company is seeking to build a Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) on a 4.5-hectare plot of rural land off Marchurst Road, about 30 kilometres west of downtown Ottawa.

More than 60 speakers lined up Thursday to speak to the City of Ottawa's Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee over a proposal to build a vast electrical storage facility in West...

Latest news on CRRC s energy storage project in Ottawa

Web: <https://scmindustries.co.za>