

Somalia faces an intensifying humanitarian crisis driven by prolonged drought, conflict, and recurrent disease outbreaks. A multi-stakeholder shock analysis conducted in 2025 estimated ...

According to the HNRP, an estimated 6.9 million people, a reduction of 17 per cent from last year, will require humanitarian assistance in 2024. Unprecedented funding reductions have severely...

in Somalia cannot be tackled through humanitarian assistance. In 2024, the HCT will deepen its collaboration with development and international financing partners to support progress and scale-up...

Prevent loss of life by reducing the prevalence of hunger and acute malnutrition and mitigating the impact of disease epidemics, armed conflict, and natural disasters on the most ...

MOGADISHU, Somalia, 26 February 2025 - New data from Somalia shows that 4.4 million people could face hunger by April 2025, driven by worsening drought conditions, conflict and high food prices.

The scale of humanitarian needs following Somalia's floods has overwhelmed existing response capacities. A Post Disaster Needs Assessment conducted by the Somali government, UN, World ...

Somalia's humanitarian crisis remains severe and protracted, driven by recurrent drought, conflict, disease outbreaks, high food prices, and declining humanitarian resource. In 2026, ...

This significant event highlights Somalia's ongoing efforts to address the pressing humanitarian challenges faced by millions of its citizens. The plan estimates that 5.98 million people ...

Web: <https://scmindustries.co.za>