

Oil loading activity in Venezuela has slowed noticeably, as several tankers have altered their movements following intensified enforcement actions by U.S. authorities. As a result, shipping ...

US President Donald Trump on Tuesday announced a "total blockade" of all sanctioned tankers in and out of Venezuela and the designation of the regime as a foreign terrorist organization.

Oil tanker movements into and out of Venezuelan waters have almost come to a standstill, the Reuters news agency reported on Friday, after the US announced that it would seize ...

(Reuters) -Loading of Venezuela's heavy crude at its main oil ports slowed this week after the U.S. imposed a tariff on trade with countries buying the South American nation's oil and ...

Benin-flagged tanker Boltaris, which was carrying some 300,000 barrels of Russian naphtha bound for Venezuela, made a u-turn late last week and is now heading for Europe without ...

Dec 22 (Reuters) - Tanker loading in Venezuela dwindled on Monday, with most ships moving oil cargoes only between domestic ports following U.S. action against two more ships and as state-run...

The U.S. seizure of an oil tanker off the coast of Venezuela laid bare a crucial factor in the standoff between Caracas and Washington: Oil remains the lifeblood of Venezuela's fragile ...

After the United States seized a Venezuelan oil cargo linked to sanctions breaches, several supertankers that were heading to load crude, and at least one ship carrying Russian ...

Heightened US enforcement actions targeting Venezuelan maritime trade are creating fresh disruption across Caribbean and Latin American logistics networks, with shipping lines, energy ...

Web: <https://scmindustries.co.za>